

10 reasons

to work remotely from Cape Town and the Western Cape

Stay as long as you like... in a place of more.

1

Co-working spaces: we have the highest number of co-working spaces in Africa. There are over 30 co-working spaces and 715 free WiFi spots in the city of Cape Town alone – with many options in the greater Western Cape province.

Connectivity: we have one of the largest open fibre networks in Africa, and our province is the most energy-secure in the country. Did you know that Cape Town is often one load-shedding level lower than the rest of SA?

Ecosystem and networks: we have a well-developed community of local and international entrepreneurs. You'll hear many languages being spoken in a large range of coffee shops (which have won awards like "best in the world"). Connect with like-minded people in co-working spaces, at events and in nature.

Tech capital of Africa: with 450 tech firms employing more than 40k people, the Cape Town - Stellenbosch tech ecosystem is bigger than Lagos and Nairobi combined.

Location diversity: staying as long as you like means working the way it suits you. You can work for an hour, a day or stay for three weeks – we have a world of remote working locations for you to choose from with a variety of family-friendly offers. Self-drive from the Mother City into the five unique regions is easy, and popular. Our five regions include semi-desert landscapes, turquoise seas, expansive mountain ranges and vineyards as far as the eye can see.

Nature: we have wide open spaces in abundance and an unfair share of natural beauty. Why not have your meeting on the mountain? No need for gym, when you can cycle, hike or surf after your day is done.

Beaches: there are 31 Blue Flag beaches across the province - go for a dip during a screen break.

7

Wine farms: our wineries are world-famous for a reason, offering not only award-winning wine, but beautiful surroundings for outdoor dining or picnics among the vines. Take your laptop along as you explore the world's longest wine route.

8

Wallet and family-friendly: Cape Town and the Western Cape welcomes families who want to discover more. Many of our hotels and guest houses offer "Kids Stay Free" packages, as well as long stay discounts. Our experiences are world-class, yet affordable.

Travel and work for good: by working from Cape Town and the Western Cape you are impacting small businesses, helping local communities thrive, and keeping our inspiring destination alive.
