

Be a part of Shinjuku's Community

Airbnb offers these 8 tips to help put you at ease
so you can enjoy your time in and around Shinjuku.

Your host is always there to help

Shinjuku can be a busy and confusing place. If you aren't sure if you've located the right building, feel free to contact your host.

Let's enjoy the calmness

In residential areas, people like to keep things peaceful. Enjoy a quiet night when you are at home.

Be respectful of local smoking rules

Smoking on public streets is forbidden in Shinjuku to protect the health of non-smokers, especially children. Please only smoke in designated areas.

Be a respectful traveler

In crowded places, small gestures like carrying your backpack in front of you and ensuring that your bags don't block doors, will be greatly appreciated.

Think before you snap

Please respect people's privacy. Avoid taking photos of children or private homes. You will always have your memories!

Do your best to organize your trash

There's also a Japanese way for garbage separation. Try to do your part - your neighbors will appreciate it!

Leave no trace

There are a few public garbage bins in Japan, so be prepared to take your trash away with you.

Fire prevention starts with you

Japan's closely-packed residential areas make house fires a major concern. Please check with your hosts on the necessary precautions to take for gas stoves and rules about smoking.
